To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to document the teaching experience of Fabrício Mendes Fialho at UCLA. Fabrício successfully completed my department's 10-week Political Science TA Training Course in the Fall of 2012. He worked as a teaching assistant for twelve courses over four years (2012-2016) covering topics in American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory, and Race, Ethnicity, and Politics. During this four year period, he was promoted from Teaching Assistant (2012-13) to Teaching Associate (2013-2014) to Teaching Fellow (2014-16.) He taught his own independent course on Public Opinion and Voting Behavior as part of UCLA's Summer Session in the Summer of 2016. Additionally, he served as a course reader for a course in Political Psychology in the Fall of 2015.

Please feel free to contact me (kbawn@polisci.ucla.edu) if you need further information.

Sincerely,
